The Sounds of Brooklyn

Not everything you hear in Brooklyn is music to the ears. Noise complaint calls to the city’s 311 line show that unwanted noise can come from a variety of sources. The maps below show complaints during the year 2012 in two ways: on the right, the types of offensive noise are put into five general categories; the map on the left shows the total number of calls, enabling us to see areas reporting the most issues.