The IPC will host a comparative panel on human rights, conflict and peace processes. The panel will examine current narratives about human rights atrocities, the resolution of civil conflicts and the success of international legal policy instruments in producing reparative policy frameworks and consolidating democratic systems after conflict. This “South-South Axis Dialogue” will explore the global interconnections between accountability, the ‘Rule of Law’ and human rights policy principles that underline the ideals for creating democratic systems.

Thursday, September 18, 2014
6:00-7:30 PM
Betty Ford Classroom, 1110 Weill Hall

Guatemala:
Victora Sanford (Lehman College, CUNY)

Colombia:
Alejandro Castillejo-Cuellar (Universidad de los Andes)

Nigeria:
Omolade Adunbi (University of Michigan)

South Africa:
Yazier Henry (University of Michigan)

Cambodia:
John Ciorciari (University of Michigan)