Focus on the Census

*The population of the United States on April 1, 2000 was 281,421,906.
The population estimate from the U.S. Pop Clock Projection on February 19, 2010 at 4:52pm was 308,718,069.*

2010 Census

Households across the United States will receive the 2010 Census form in the mail to fill out and return. It's been ten years since the last U.S. Census.

Statistics collected by the Census help gather information to build and increase resources for your community. Data collected from the Census provides quick as well as detailed facts about the population of the U.S.

By law, all heads of households must complete the Census form.
