

Are you a Freshman or Sophomore student interested in pursuing a career in Science, Technology, Engineering or Math (STEM)?

Are you a pre-med student looking for interesting extra-curricular activities?

Curious about what research in the STEM fields is like?

Register for the

INTRO TO STEM RESEARCH

Seminar!

NSS-150 is a one-credit seminar class designed for students who want to learn more about research in the STEM fields and explore the research opportunities available to undergraduates at Lehman. In this seminar, students will:

- ✓ Learn about the fundamental principles of scientific research
- ✓ Meet faculty members involved in research across all STEM fields and learn about their projects
- ✓ Learn about funding programs for undergraduate research at Lehman (and how to apply)
- ✓ Have opportunities for placement in a research group as early as Summer 2022

And so much more!

Students interested should register for NSS-150 (course 58196)
