Henri Salvador

“Room with a view” (Blue Note)

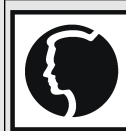

A legend in France, Henri Salvador will remind some of a mix of Brazilian icon Caetano Veloso and the great late Nat King Cole. He has enjoyed an illustrious seven-decade-long career that shows no sign of abating.

The Paris-based singer/lyricist/entertainer is one of France’s best-known personalities, thanks in part to his long recording history and to his pioneering work in French television for 30 years. He has been celebrated as a cultural hero and awarded many honors. He is unknown in the U.S., an oversight that will be rectified with the 84-year-old artist’s debut, “Room with a View” (“Chambre Avec Vue”). It is a gorgeous and coolly hip collection of songs that soothe with a bossa nova breeze, swing with a jazz flair, and romance with lush orchestral arrangements. Three tracks are sung in English, including “Room with view” with a soft trumpet touch. Toots Thielemans brings his nostalgic harmonica breeze to “Vagabond” and a longing love song poses over “Je sais que tu sais” (“I know that you know”).

The album was first released in France in 2000 and has sold over a million copies in Europe. Just like the Italian crooner Paolo Conte, Salvador soon will become a household name in the U.S.
