

From Son Jarocho to Música de Cuerdas Reclaiming a Tradition through Community and Nature

WEDNESDAY APRIL 30 – 12 PM OUTDOOR AMPHITHEATER

Son Jarocho, a string-based music tradition from southern Veracruz, Mexico is more than just a genre, it is a way of making music through shared labor, connection to place, and respect for ancestral knowledge.

Learn more about it with a workshop and performance by Colectivo Altepee from Veracruz, the Jarochicanos group from Chicago and researcher and renowned guitarist Carlos Cuestas.

HISAM
Hitchcock Institute for Studies in American Music

