

CONGRATULATIONS!

YOU GRADUATED!

SO NOW WHAT?

A philosophy major is excellent preparation for a wide range of graduate degrees, perhaps including some you haven't considered:

With an M.P.P or M.P.A, you can work in policy development, program analysis, public relations, advocacy work, campaign operations – a wide range of careers both inside and outside the government sector.

With an M.B.A, you can work in consulting, marketing, communications, program management, and more. Philosophy majors score highly on the GMAT and are often preferred by M.B.A. programs to traditional business students.

With a J.D., you can explore not only the wide range of careers within the law, but also many successful careers outside it – in journalism, government, publishing, and more.

With a Ph.D., you can become a professor. Not done with your philosophical journey? Consider the Ph.D., or the M.A., and talk to us about which makes more sense.

Could you pursue an M.D.? An M.F.A? A Master's Degree in Journalism?

Your degree in philosophy can open doors to all of the above. Email carl.brownson@lehman.cuny.edu for pre-graduate advisement and to discuss your options.

The Ph.D. and M.A.

The J.D.

The M.D.

The M.P.P. and M.P.A

The M.B.A.

Get help with:

Navigating your options

Crafting an application

Preparing for tests

Thinking about funding